Arsis Conducting Seminar & Open Orchestra Horto Summer Orchestral Academy

25 August - 1 September 2018

The Horto Summer Orchestral Academy is a combination of the Open Orchestra seminars and the Arsis Conducting Seminar. The Academy is designed for student conductors plus all the symphony orchestra instrument players. Within its framework young musicians will have the opportunity to actively participate in the preparation and presentation of two demanding symphony concerts: Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" and Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker".

Apart from the technical and interpretational problems a lot of emphasis will be placed on matters of cooperation and group spirit. The general supervisor is Anastasios Strikos who will collaborate with experienced music teachers. The latter will be supervising and preparing sections of the orchestra. "The Nutcracker" will be conducted by the student conductors whereas "Peter and the Wolf" will be conducted by Anastasios Strikos.
